A workshop of drawing pictures on the boards which form Japanese islands was held at a foster home in Cambodia. As a matter of fact, they put "I love japan" on the board or drew a picture of both countries' national flags crossing to show their friendship.

Their love to Japan made a brush stroke with love to Japan Kids living at the Home had to earn house rent, cost of food or other living cost by themselves because all the sudden, the landlord of their previous house kicked them out from the house due to the landlord's own issue and the Kids could not find any sponsors. The Kids can currently survive and manage to live in here because we could send them YOUR monthly support from japan.
